

Contribution of the Keynote Speaker – Multiconference

This is an exciting time to be in Sri Lanka. Many opportunities are present. The complex problems will be best solved with cross-cutting answers involving perspectives from the humanities, social science, and natural science. No longer are the traditional narrow disciplines of academe sufficient. What is needed is a culture of creativity and innovation. I am excited to engage with the participants and organizers of this 2025 SICASH conference who are at the cutting edge of this interdisciplinary approach to problem solving in Sri Lanka and beyond.
